Happenings of Interest in and Around this Bustling Town.
You are Talked About

Mr. Godsell of Landbreck, conducted the services in St. Alban's church last Sunday evening.

Wm. Neil, carpenter for the International Coal & Coke Co., has gone to High River for a week.

Holy Communion will be administered after evening service next Sunday in St. Alban's church.

Cigars that please can be had at the Coleman Drug Store. All the best brands and flavors. Try them.

The many friends of Mrs. D. J. Hill will be pleased to see her out again after a very severe attack of bronchitis.

Quimette, Wright & Co. have the old "Hill & Co." sign re-painted, and also have a sign on the back of their store.

W. L. Quimette, of the firm of Olmette, Wright & Co., has removed into the house on Third street formerly occupied by a perfect hair.

All empty cars on the Crow's Nest Pass railway, both east and west, are now sealed. It surely is getting more difficult every day for the festive hobbier.

Mr. Colin Macleod, barrister of Macleod, spent Wednesday in town on professional business. Mr. Macleod is doing a lot of law business along the Crow's Nest Pass.

INSTITUTIONAL CHURCH—Pastor, Rev. T. M. Murray, Services: Sabbath 11 a.m., 7:30 p.m. Sabbath-school and Bible class, 2:30. Christian Endeavor, Wednesday 8 p.m.

The Miners' Union Hall and Opera House is nearing completion. The hardwood floor is laid, some of the painting done, and the hall will do credit to a town of 5,000 population.

For Dominion day the Canadian Pacific Railway Company announce a trip. Tickets on sale June 29th to July 1st, inclusive. Final return limit July 1st.

Harry Patterson, agent for the Miller & Richard type firm of Winnipeg, spent Saturday in town. Mr.
Patterson says the "Miner" office is the best and most complete of any in southern Alberta.

The three slaves accused of gambling were not set at liberty, as the police could prove what sort of a game they were playing. This is the second case of gambling "police" have failed to prove within two weeks.

For the Dominion Exhibition, Calgary, June 26th to July 7th, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company announce a rate of $1.80 from Coleman to Calgary and return. Tickets on sale June 26th to July 7th, inclusive.
Final return limit July 7th.

James Larrigan, Wm. M. Griffiths and Wm. Crawford took a day off and went fishing the first of the week.
Jimmy caught a fish which tipped the scales at 10 pounds when the "scale" were taken off. Jimmy says he will fish with any one for fun, money or marbles.

In the write up of the "sock social" last week, Miss Kate McIntyre's name appeared as president, when it should have been "Miss K. McNabb." Also in the Dominion day article, it should have been under the auspices of the Coleman Foot Ball Club, instead of the Miners' Union.

The Rev. Canon Webb of Calgary, will conduct services in St. Alban's church next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. On Saturday evening commencing at 8 o'clock sharp a meeting of the male members of the congregation will be held in the church. A large attendance is requested.

W. J. Sandridge has a gang of nine at work putting in culverts east of Coleman on the road to Blairmore.
Mr. Sandridge will soon commence cutting down the side of the mountain just outside of the town to the east and will use the rock and earth to fill in and make the road passible.

About twenty houses are wanted in town. There is not a vacant house to be had for love or money, and people are almost daily looking for them.
Who will build? Surely some one should. You want people to come to Coleman and when they get here there is no where for them to live.

P. Jones, James Larrigan, Sam Ingham, Thos. Jordan, Wm. Chalmers and R. Lyson are the committee for arranging for the grand ball on the evening of Dominion day, July 1st.
The fact of these able gentlemen being at the head of the ball which is to be held in the new hall is a guarantee alone of the success it will be.

Antonio Cunis and Miss Annie Gudovsky, Slavs, were married on Monday at Coleman. James Cunis and Miss Annie Marciukewy were the groomsmen and bridesmaids. In the evening a dance was held, about a hundred of the friends of the happy couple being present. The English speaking residents of Coleman were there in full force.

The Coleman Quadrille Club held a most successful practice dance on Thursday evening of last week, about thirty couples taking advantage of the splendid music. Several were present from Blairmore. The floor manager, John Stafford, carried out his duties in a most creditable and agreeable manner. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves. These dances are held every Thursday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock sharp. All who wish to learn dancing should attend as this will be a good opportunity to take lessons. Look out for the grand ball to be held shortly by the class.
See posters later.

OIL IN ALBERTA

Oil Will Soon Be Found in Great Quantities in Southern Alberta A Second Texas.

That oil will soon be had in paying quantities in southern Alberta goes without saying. The following signed statement of the superintendent and contractors of the Canadian North West Oil Company, of which Marcy D. Couch is a member, speaks for itself. It also shows that this company are doing a lot of expensive work in developing the oil resources of this province.

"We the undersigned are fully convinced that the future supply of high grade oil will be struck on the Canadian North West Oil company's property from the facts as noted.

"That the oil-bearing sandstone is lying in even folds and undisturbed, these rocks lying just as created.

"That the strata for miles around dip towards this common center, thereby forming a perfect basin.

"That four fine showings of oil and petroleum gas have been struck, which proves that these rocks are not barren.

"That we have been in the contracting and drilling business for 30 years, drilling in many different places and getting wells from two barrels per day to as high as one hundred and seventy-two barrels of oil per hour, and nowhere have we ever found more favorable indications for a big strike.

"This last showing of oil which was forced to the top would no doubt prove a rich yield, had it not been for a gusher of water breaking in. An idea as to the extent of this showing can be had when it covered the ground around the cook house for days and around the house for weeks, while gas burned twenty feet high. Water being heavier than oil forces the oil back, and the amount of water coming into this well at present would drown out a thousand barrels of oil. We dare not pull casing to put on another joint for fear of the water which we have have caused off at 1,100 feet, and we dare not drill another inch for fear of tapping more oil until we get the pressure water shut out. Such as the necessary material ordered from Pensylvanian to take care of this well as arrives, operations will be continued.

"Well is capped and a reliable man in charge. In the meantime a good road is being constructed. With the proper men at the back of this enterprise, we would not hesitate in saying that this well will be worth at least $50 per share by Christmas. This property is years of work and all the money a man has, because when fully developed there is no doubt about big returns.

B. H. McCUTCHEN,
Contractor and Superintendent of Works, SLATER BROTHERS.

Head Drillers."

A great deal has been said and written about oil in Alberta, but the following article, quoted from the "Victoria Week," which newspaper is admitted to be conservative in its opinions, speaks volumes for the enterprise of which Mr. Couch is the main factor:
"A great deal has been heard of oil in British Columbia, and there was a time when the complaints of investors on this score were justifiable. Every one who has lived in the province for ten years or so has had experience of the raising and expending of large sums of money on worthless ventures until it became almost impossible to raise capital for "the oil" projects.
Such experiences are inseparable from the pioneer stages of a mining country.
On the other hand there are not a few instances in which men of enterprise, honesty and skill have taken hold of wrecked concerns and on the basis of facts have been successful enterprises. It is because such instances are more numerous than the public are aware of that "The Week" has no interest whatever in this concern, and has never carried any of its advertising, but the facts of its history as recently published in the daily press are such as to attract attention and to justify their citation in support of the above argument. Established three years ago after the expenditure of a large sum of money, the concern was in a hopelessly insolvent condition, and had effected nothing towards the development of its properties in southern Alberta. A number of local business men, all of moderate means but with faith in the enterprise banded themselves together to save the abandonment of the property. They secured the services of Mr. Anthony Anderson as secretary, under his energetic and capable control a moderate amount of stock has been sold, the money thus realized has been expended in an economical and judicious manner suitable to the case, the best expert bores engaged, and in less than four months a bore-hole has been carried down a depth of 1,000 feet. In the same region oil companies have been operating for ten years without having bored to this depth, and probably upwards of half a million dollars have been spent. The problem of oil in paying quantities still remains unsolved both in the Flathead country and in southern Alberta. The geologists cannot be said to be favorable in their opinion, but geologists have made no statement before now and at any rate the evidence is not more in their favor than in that of the uneducated prospectors who are spending their money in the endeavor to discover for Canada a second Texas.
These men are not talking and they are not boasting, they are quietly putting up their money and working. If there is pay oil in southern Alberta they will find it. If they do they will be rich men, and will have paved the way for the making of millions. The prospects are at least fair, and as long as the concern is managed as economically as at present the expenditure will be so small that no one will be hurt if they draw a blank instead of a prize, in what must from every standpoint be regarded as a great venture."

COLEMAN LOCALS

WANTED—Table and lodging board erast "The Boarding House."

Rev. J. Sergeant, pastor of the Baptist church, will preach next Sunday morning in I.O.G.F. hall, at 11 o'clock.

A. T. Blais arrived from Banff on Wednesday morning to take over the management of the Co-Operative Co.'s store.

Sidney Birt had the misfortune to have his left foot badly bruised last Saturday in the mine, by a large piece of coal falling on it.

Rev. C. C. McLaurin, general Baptist missionary for Alberta, will preach in the I.O.G.F. hall Sunday morning in the I.O.G.F. hall.

A. B. Hames, who has been manager of the Co-Operative store for over a year, has resigned, and expects to take a position as traveller for a firm in Calgary. Mr. Hames has been a good manager, and the Co-Operative store has become very popular under his experienced management.

Word has been received from several friends of G. E. Ewing, former manager of the Eastern Townships Bank, that he will be in Coleman again in the course of a few weeks.
Mr. Ewing who was run down in health when here owing to over work, is feeling like himself again, his many friends will be glad to hear.

All members of Coleman Lodge No.
36, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, are requested to meet in their hall at the Mercantile building on Monday June 28th, and bring all the flowers they can get with them. Sunday will be decoration day and the brethren will march to the cemetery and decorate the grave of the departed brother with flowers. The procession will leave the hall at 8 o'clock. All visiting brethren are invited.

Members of the Spokane chamber of commerce to the number of about one hundred will be in Coleman on Monday, July 6th. They will be banqueted in the new hall by the Coleman board of trade at 12:30. The citizens' band will be in attendance and play "March Through Georgia" and other soul inspiring music suitable to the occasion. The members of the party will be on their return from the Dominion day Calgary, and Coleman will be their objective point in the Crow's Nest Pass.

FRANK

Dr. Bruce, dentist, of Macleod, has opened an office here permanently in the Mercantile building on J. E. Ross D.D.S. will be in attendance daily.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION

The Coleman Foot Ball Club are working hard taking out the stones, filling in holes and levelling the grounds for the first of July. Everything will be in readiness for the big demonstration next Wednesday.
Good weather is the only thing wanted to make this equal to the celebration held last year. Sports and accommodation have been arranged for a large crowd. The grand ball in the new hall on Monday day instead of Tuesday, as was the case in other towns, as you will be right, royally treated. $150 will be given for foot ball prizes.

DROWNING AT SLAY TOWN

On Wednesday morning about 8:30 o'clock the 4 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Macneac was found drowned in the creek there by Mrs. G.
Hannick. She gave the alarm and her husband took the unfortunate little fellow from the water. His father was immediately notified. The doctor was summoned and pronounced the child extinct. Mrs. J. Kubink last saw the little fellow alive. He then had a roped to a large dog which his father used to own, with the rope twisted around his right wrist. It is supposed that the dog either pulled or pushed the lad into the stream off a foot bridge near the parent's home, and he floated down stream about 200 feet. Unfortunately Andrew Macneac is having heavy trouble of his own. A short time ago he lost their baby, now his only son is drowned, and his wife is seriously ill and cannot help herself. Andrew has the sympathy of the entire community in his sad position. The little son was buried Thursday afternoon. This is the second drowning accident in Slay Town within three months. Corner Disney deemed an inquest unnecessary.

GENERAL NEWS

Millions of caterpillars are devastating New Brunswick and are blocking railroad traffic.

There are still no tidings of the little girl Alice Drapan lost off the train near Kenora.

Taft and Sherman were the unanimous choice at the Republican nomination for president and vice president of the United States.

Hindus must have at least $300 before they will be allowed to come into this country. This will have the effect of keeping them out.

PINCHER CITY

Fine weather.

The crops are doing well.

Ask your druggist for "New Life," the world's greatest guaranteed cure for indigestion.

At the present writing the entire gang connected with the drilling outfit are at work. We predict water soon now.

O. E. Green and wife had their infant boy christened at the Methodist church here on Sunday by the Rev.
W. R. Seely.

W. H. Read has put up a new picket fence in front of his two residences here, which greatly improves the appearance of the property.

Ask your druggist for "New Life,"
the world's greatest guaranteed cure
for indigestion.

W. H. Read has the contract for putting up verandahs in front of the Alexandria hotel. When this is completed it will make his hotel one of the best in the west.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Aid at Mrs. W. H. Read's, Mrs. Seely was presented with a chocolate set in recognition of the great interest she has taken in the A.S. work.

The Ladies' Aid of Pincher City will give a strawberry social and band concert Wednesday evening, July 15th, on the church lawn. A good time is anticipated. Watch for posters.

W. P. Laidlaw is going right into the poultry business, judging from the way he is building houses and fences on his property. Good money should be made from the poultry business, with a ready cash market to the near west.

No change has been made in the time of the trains in the new time card. The train numbers have been altered as follows: Regular west bound numbers.

Mrs. Seely again sang a solo at the Methodist church Sunday, which was much appreciated. Mrs. Seely has a splendid voice and is greatly appreciated by church circles generally, as she is a very active worker and always ready and willing to assist in any branch of the work.

J. Hamlin, who was arrested some time ago by the R. N. W. M. P. at the instance of the C. P. R., owns a farm just north of the river from here, and has worked at this station as night tele-grapher. At the preliminary hearing at Macleod he was discharged, and it is understood that he is bringing action against the C. P. R. for $5,000 damages for malicious prosecution.

The Ladies' Aid are to be congratulated for the manner in which they have improved the appearance of the interior of the Methodist church by having the walls, balconies, and the ceiling and woodwork oiled and varnished. The work was done by W. P.
Laidlaw to the entire satisfaction of the Ladies' Aid. About three dozen more chairs are required to accommodate the congregation.

It is often said trouble never comes alone. W. McKenzie, who recently lost a most valuable race horse with pneumonia, has again had the misfortune to have "Royal George" probably ruined by reason of being badly lacerated by wire fences. A race was being pulled off at Claresholm on Friday last, when a horse running alongside "Royal George" crowded him into the fence, with the result that both horses bolted and ran away, passing through at least five wire fences. Mr. McKenzie naturally feels badly over his loss, which practically breaks up his racing stable. The other horse in this case had to be shot.

BEEF FAMINE IN THE STATES

A feature of the past two weeks in the Winnipeg live stock market has been the shipping of stockers from the Canadian west to south St. Paul, Minnesota, to be fed for market. The reason for this is that there is an alarming shortage of beef supply in the United States markets. So pressing is the demand that there is talk of having beef which was exported to England last winter shipped back to American ports in cold storage. The export of beef which is normally large from New York is now practically nil.
It is reported that packers who have contracted for space with the steamship companies are defaulting, preferring to lose the price of the freight, rather than lose the freight, together with being compelled to sell meat in England at a much less sum than they pay for it on this side. Within the last week the price of beef has risen one to two cents on 100 pounds in St.
Paul, and the price is now one-third greater than at the first part of June, 1907.

Has the time already come when the Canadian west will be depended upon to supply the meat markets of the world? The present shortage in the United States markets must continue until fall at least and it may take a year or two to recover. Meanwhile Canadian cattle will be almost a necessary across the line. Since Canadian pulp wood has become essential to the operation of American paper mills there has been considerable agitation for the removal of the import duty.
Uncle Sam may yet be compelled to remove or at all events considerably lower the import duty on Canadian cattle. Such a request would be hailed by Alberta stockmen.

The Hissar Emerald.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by the Associated Literary Press.

Lamson blew a cloud of smoke into the air and, with meditative eyes, watched it dissolve.

"And the emerald," repeated Coleman eagerly as he fingered the contents of his friend's gem cabinet—"I don't see the Hissar emerald. What has become of it? That was the gem of your collection."

Lamson leaned forward and drew out the lower tray of the cabinet. From an assortment of small leather cases thrown carelessly together he took one and gave it to Coleman.

"There is the Hissar emerald," he said quietly.

Coleman pressed the spring and as the lid flew up uttered a startled cry.

"Why—why," he stammered excitedly, "this is not the Hissar—" He paused interrogatively.

"It is the Hissar emerald and none other," returned Lamson, speaking with curious deliberation and distinctness. He took the case from the Hissar's hand and shook the huge stone into his palm.

"It is like green glass," muttered Coleman, staring stupidly.

A piece of green glass as large as an almond, oval in shape, cut in a hundred facets that reflected the lamplight dully, rolled about in Lamson's hand.

"How can it be?" Coleman, sitting back in his chair and looking keenly at his host.

"I wish it were a joke," said Lamson carefully as he replaced the jewel in the cabinet and laid it upon the table.

"I wish you would tell me about it, old man," remarked Coleman impatiently, lighting another cigarette. "Tell me about the transformation of one of the most famous jewels of the world into worthless glass."

"Of course you know its history," Coleman began Lamson, settling back in his chair. "You know I purchased it from an old chap in Bombay for a ridiculous price—thirty gold rubles—and the man seemed to be much relieved to be rid of the stone."

"I don't think that you've sort of got the emerald on your mind? Let it prey upon you, you know, and that you imagine you are being pursued?"

"Hissar," Coleman, interrupted him shortly. He had drawn aside a heavy curtain and disclosed a carved panel through the interstices of which the interior of the studio was plainly visible. There was a gem cabinet on the fire. On it were the gem cabinet unlocked, the emerald in its case and the wicked snake basket. Suddenly the emerald dropped, shattered, on a long, black, black—figure—glided forward. A white turban flared from the lampflame, and beneath it was a dark-skinned man, and a fiery brilliant green tree. The man bowed over the table for a brief instant and then turned and glided back to the window. Again the draperies settled and were still.

Coleman started and stared. The wicked snake was gone. The Hissar emerald was gone. He followed Lamson back to the studio and watched his friend as he closed and locked the open window. The artist then stepped to the hearth rug and lighted a cigarette.

"And the Hissar emerald?" began Coleman moodily, when Lamson stopped him with a gesture.

"Is here," he said coolly, snapping open his silver matchbox and displaying within it the rich green sparkle and royal splendor of the Hissar emerald.

A Good Trick.

The parrot's intimation to speak his set phrases under all sorts of circumstances often produces strange situations. The story is told of a slight of hand performer who kept a parrot that he had trained to say whenever one of his master's tricks had been finished: "That's a good trick. What's the next one?"

One day the juggler, being in a seaport town, gave his performance in a loft on one of the wharfs, which happened to get just over the place where a large quantity of powder was stored in kegs. The juggler was about to perform some feat which required the lighting of a candle. He lighted it and threw the match away without making sure that the blaze had gone out. The match, still burning, fell through a crack in the floor and dropped into one of the kegs of powder, which exploded with great force, throwing the building into the air. The parrot, who was blown up with the rest, did not stop until it reached the pinnacle of the topmast of a great ship which lay off the wharf. There he clung desperately, and looking down to the world below, he called out in a shrill voice:

"That's a good trick! What's the next one?"

He Was a Philosopher.

A busy merchant who had not taken a holiday for years, in which time every other member of his family had enjoyed many outings, concluded to give himself a rest of a week or two and started for Scotland. When he had been gone a day he received a telegram from his wife to this effect:

"Our house was entirely destroyed by the last night. The children and I escaped unharmed. Come home at once."

MARRIA.

To this, after reflecting a moment, he replied as follows:

"What is the use of coming home when there is no house to go to? Take the children to mother's. Stay there with them till I join you and don't."

Red Blood Good Health

Spring blood is thin and watery until Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

Red blood is the foundation of health and strength.

The same of the blood which give it color—the red corpuscles—also contain the elements which sustain and invigorate the body and its organs.

It is because the blood is thin and watery in the spring that nearly everybody requires a blood-builder and restorative.

Now what Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food does is to increase the number of red corpuscles in the blood or in other words to make the blood richer and richer in the elements which go to build up new cells and tissues to replace those wasted by disease or in the process of living.

Replenish the blood by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food and you lift yourself from that low level of health which leaves you tired and languid to the level of a vigorous and healthy man.

The portrait and signature of the famous Red Book author, A. W. Chase, M.D., are on every box of the genuine. 50 cts. at all dealers or Callaghan, Bates & Co., Toronto, Ont.

A Consensus of Opinion.

On the way to the office of his publishers one crisp fall morning, James Whitcomb Riley met an unusually large number of acquaintances who commented conventionally upon the fine weather. This unassuming applause amused him. When greeted at the office with "Nice day, Mr. Riley," he smiled broadly.

"Yes," he agreed. "Yes, I've heard it very highly spoken of."

In the treatment of summer complaints the most effective remedy that can be used is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cord. It is a standard preparation and many people employ it in preference to other preparations. It is a highly concentrated medicine and its sedative and curative qualities are beyond question. It has been a popular medicine for many years and its superior qualities in overcoming dysentery and kindred complaints.

"John, do you love me?"

"Yes."

"Do you adore me?"

"Yes, I do."

"Will you always love me?"

"Yes, I will, as long as you love me."

"Yes, I will, as long as you love me."

BABY'S TEETHING TIME IS A TROUBLESOME TIME.

When baby's teething the whole household is upset. The tender little gums are inflamed and swollen, the poor little child suffers and often cries. The mother hovering over the mother out and keeping the rest of the family on edge. In the homes where Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are used there is no such worry.

The Tablets allay the inflammation, soothe the irritation, and bring the teeth through painlessly. Mr. S. Williams, of Joseph, Ont., says: "My first baby suffered terribly when cutting her teeth. Her mother could do nothing for her. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and they did her so much good that I cannot say enough in their favor. You may be sure that I always keep the Tablets in the house now."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail to a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Water, have you got any Gorgonzola cheese?"

"Yes, sir, and hard."

"Thank you. Gorgonzola cheese ought to be green and very soft."—Everybody's Magazine.

Hard and soft corns both yield to Holloway's Corn Cure, which is entirely safe to use, and certain and satisfactory in its action.

"My good woman, don't you know the reason of this thing?"

"Judge, I had to do it. Both lady candidates asked for my vote and I didn't know how to refuse either of them."—Washington Star.

Minard's Liniment, used by Physicians.

Adam looked at his helpmeet thoughtfully.

"Well," he said, in his emphatic way, "there's certainly one honor that is indisputably yours, my dear."

"Yes, sir, what, Ad?" queried our first mother.

Adam suddenly smiled.

"Nobody can dispute the claim that you are the first lady in the land," he said.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

He Had a Philosophy.

A busy merchant who had not taken a holiday for years, in which time every other member of his family had enjoyed many outings, concluded to give himself a rest of a week or two and started for Scotland. When he had been gone a day he received a telegram from his wife to this effect:

SHAKESPEARE'S TOMB.

It Would Be Desecrated and the Past Impaired.

The fact that would be desecrators of Shakespeare's tomb have not dared to risk the falling of the corpse invoked in the lines cut upon his tomb is a striking testimony to the powerful effect upon mankind of such an impression.

O. H. Phillips, writing in the eighties, said:

"The nearest approach to an excavation in the grave of Shakespeare was made in the summer of the year 1796 in digging a vault in the immediate locality, when an opening appeared which was presumed to indicate the commencement of the site of the bard's remains. The most scrupulous care, however, was taken not to disturb the neighboring earth in the slightest degree, the clerk having been placed there till the brickwork of the adjoining vault was completed to prevent any one making an examination. No real change was visible through the small opening that thus presented itself, and as the poet was buried in the ground, not in a vault, the great probability is that the bones of Shakespeare were not to be disturbed. But the suppository lines prevailed. There were some among the number who at the moment refused to incur the warning condemnation and so the design was happily abandoned."

A correspondent of the London Athenaeum wrote in 1881: "I remember on a visit to the grave of Shakespeare in 1827 or 1828 remarking that it was little creditable to the authorities that the raised covering to the tomb should have been allowed to fall into such decay."

The attempt at a later day to meddle with the tomb had no more effective ending.

South American Animals.

Many curious animals haunt the marshy parts of South America north of the pampas. Frogs big and ferocious (the cecropians), given to being vicious springs when closely approached; the capybara, a cavy contented with the bulk of the sheep; the huge coyote and the swarthy tapir are frequently seen. Along the forest margins troops of peccaries are often met with, occasionally the jaguar, sometimes the puma; likewise the toothless curiosity the great bear, long in the past used to be a remarkably long toothed. Very plentiful, too, are those "little knights in scaly armor," the quaint, waddling armadillos, which have found their way into the floating junks. A familiar object is the great jabara, a stork with a preference for the desolate lagoons, where it may often be observed stooping on one leg and wrapped in speculation.

Big Tips For Little Favors.

"It is surprising," said a veteran Pullman porter, "how big a tip a porter sometimes gets for doing a very little thing."

"A passenger once tipped me extra because he said I did not leave his shoestrings coiled up inside his shoes after I had blacked them. He said nothing made him madder than to slip off his shoes in a hurry in a sleeper only to find that he had to take them off again because the shoestrings were inside. Ever since that time I have been careful not to leave shoestrings inside of the shoes I black, and more than one passenger has thanked me for being thoughtful. But it wasn't that I did the thinking. The tip did that for me, and I never forgot it."

In the Right Direction.

Bishop Bonfield was one of the many witty Englishmen whose good things have found their way into a volume of reminiscences, "Leaves From the Notebooks of Lady Dorothy Nevill."

Bishop Bonfield was led into a controversy one time with a learned man as to the mental superiority of the east over the west, and his opponent as a paring shot said:

"Well, at any rate you can't dispute that the wise men came from the east."

"Surely that was the wisest thing they could do?" retorted the bishop.

A Futile Boast.

"Love me and the world is mine," he said.

"What's the use of saying that?" she replied. "I've been loving you for weeks and you haven't even succeeded in getting a good job."

Marriage is a lottery in which men stake their liberty and women their happiness.—Mme. de Hellex.

SELLING CLOTHING.

Old Time Ways and Those of the Present Day—Traveling Model.

Time was when the traveling salesman for a wholesale manufacturer of men's clothing carried with him just two sample trunks, one a wardrobe trunk and the other what is called a satchel trunk. In the wardrobe trunk he carried suspended on suitable hangers fifteen or twenty made up suits. Carried thus, these sample garments keep in good condition and show for what they are and to the best advantage.

In the satchel trunk the salesman carries samples of all the other fabrics that his concern is making up. Satchel is a trade name for a sample cloth 9 by 12 inches. Of swatches the salesman may carry hundreds, and he carries besides some scores of ends of cloth, an end being a long piece cut off the entire width of the cloth.

Of swatches and ends the salesman has a trunkful, and with fifteen or twenty made up suits to show styles and workmanship and those samples to show fabrics he can show goods to the traveling salesman from a bewildering assortment of hundreds of made up suits.

Of course the man on the road with clothing does not in these circumstances require a packer, but the present day traveler for a concern making only high grade clothing does take with him a model on whom to exhibit clothes for the better display of the certain traits of his character, however, and to show just how they will look when worn.

What is considered the standard model in the clothing trade is a man five feet eight inches in height, thirty-six inches chest measure and thirty-two inches waist. He must be of course well built and otherwise of correct proportions. If a model five feet six inches in height were required he would need to be thirty-seven inches chest measure and thirty-three waist.

The model must be young or comparatively young, his face must be handsome, but he must be of good bearing, of intelligence and of good sense.

If the salesman is an able man and the model himself is a man with ability in him, then by observation and experience the model absorbs and develops the art of salesmanship, and he comes to have a model to try on clothing for him.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

One Cure.

"I believe I'll rock the boat," declared the man in the stern. "I won't do it," advised his companion. "It might discharge this unloaded pistol I have in my jeans."

The Legend of the Dolphin.

A rich Bristol merchant was coming home from the West Indies in a vessel which contained all his wealth, says a London paper. When far from land the ship sprung a leak. The crew tried hard to keep her afloat by pumping out the water. The water was coming in faster. Although they worked at the pumps day and night, yet it seemed as though the ship would sink. All at once, so their great astonishment, the water stopped coming in, and the ship was pumped dry. On examination of the bottom of the vessel it was found that a dolphin had squeezed itself into the hole and thus saved them from destruction. Out of gratitude the merchant founded a charity school in Bristol, and all the scholars wear on their breasts the figure of a dolphin in brass in remembrance of this remarkable deliverance.

A FRONTIER MARKSMAN.

Wild Bill Hickok's Skill in Use of the Six Shooter.

Wild Bill Hickok was the first frontiersman who recognized the importance of proficiency in the use of the six shooter. This was the real secret of his supremacy. He was an unerring marksman and shot as accurately under fire as when firing at a mark, apparently taking no aim.

Probably no man has ever equalled him in the lightning-like rapidity with which he could draw a weapon in time of emergency and in the thorough skill possession that made it possible for him to take advantage of every opportunity in savage conflict. He had a standing order to his deputies that they should not rush in on him in any of his affairs and especially should not come quickly up in the rear.

By forgetting this a man named William met his death at Abilene, Hickok taking him for an enemy and firing so rapidly that it left no opportunity for recognition. He readily admitted a wild goose across the Smoky Hill with his revolver. Riding at his horse's highest speed, he fired shot after shot into a tin can on a post, his character, however, the street to settle little wagers. He could shoot a hole through a silver dime at fifty paces and could drive the cork through the neck of a bottle at thirty paces and knock out the bottom without breaking the neck. He could do what the fancy shots of the present day, do, and possibly some of them equal him as marksmen with a revolver, but it must be remembered that he was the first to acquire the skill, and the so called crack shots of his day were poor imitations at best, although most of them boasted of their fame.

He shot just as well with others shooting at him and at a man as steadily as at any other target. There were certain traits of his character, however, that were almost womanly. He was fond of children, and they liked him. He declined to quarrel with the peaceful settlers of the community, the business men, on any provocation. He was no foolhardy, bravo about him.

—Denver Field and Farm.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor creases and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. On the left side, a dark, possibly black or dark brown, binding edge is visible, showing the inner structure of the book's spine. The overall lighting is even, highlighting the subtle variations in the paper's tone and texture.
